1. Welcome and introductions: The APPG Co-Chair, Lord Watson welcomed all attendees, allowing each to introduce themselves to the room. He then handed over to the three sector expert representatives to provide an update on recent policy developments in children's social care across the three respective nations.
2. England: Katharine Sacks-Jones, Chief Executive of Become provided an update on children's social care in England – highlighting key issues such as the pressures on the care system and local authorities, rising demand for children's social care, the instability that children in care continue to face and the care cliff for young people leaving care. Katharine reflected on recent developments including Stable Homes, Built on Love – the Government’s reform strategy for children’s social care published in February 2023, as well as information about the launch of the new Department for Education \(DfE\) Market Interventions Advisory Group.

3. Wales: Helen Mary Jones, Voices for Care Cymru provided an update on children’s social care in Wales and the recent developments over the past three years from the Welsh Government, including legislation being laid to remove profit in the sector and its four-year transition period; and the Universal Basic Income pilot for care leavers in Wales.
4. Scotland: Louise Hunter, Who Cares? Scotland provided an update on children’s social care in Scotland, including The Promise Scotland – the reform programme for children’s social care in Scotland; the lack of effective outcomes data; and the reduction in children entering care in Scotland in recent years.
5. Questions and discussion: The Co-Chair reflected on the respective updates from each of the nations and opened the room for questions and comments. Attendees raised various reflections and questions about the developments, the state of children’s social care across the three countries and what lessons could be learned from each.
6. End: The roundtable closed at 1.30pm.
